From email: "Photo attached of a natural avalanche from yesterday, just south of Cooke City. It's on an E, NE aspect, with a crown around 9,300'. Looks like it occurred yesterday am, as a result of a cornice fall." B. Fredlund

Advisory Region
Cooke City
Longitude
-109.94W

Latitude
45.02N
Avalanche Details: Natural small wind slab and dry loose near Cooke
Cooke City, 2020-02-28